

Celebrity tomato

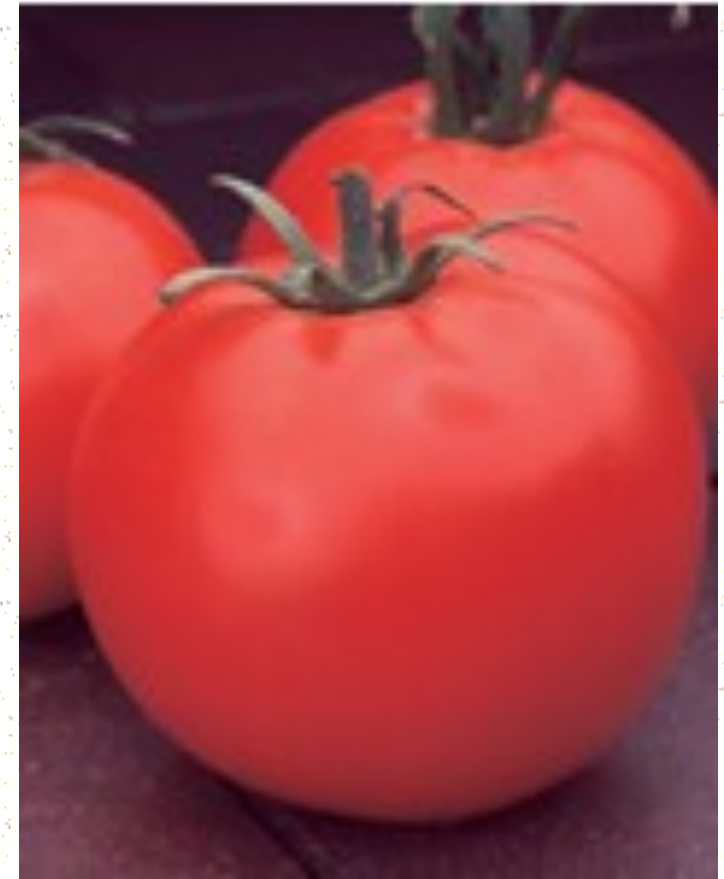

Known as a "classic" tomato

Is an "all-purpose" tomato that is good for slicing, making into sauce, as salsa, cut up into salads, or for canning

Grows well in both warm and cold climates

Is resistant to many diseases

Grow up to about 8 oz in weight

Early Girl tomato

Introduced to the U.S. and France in the 1970's, it became an instant hit

Are a hybrid variety that is designed to grow in cool climates that occasionally see extreme temperature changes

Are a very fast growing variety of tomato

Are classified as 'globe' tomatoes and typically grow to reach the size of a tennis ball

Are perfect for slicing or using in cooked meals

Roma tomato

Roma's are not round like most tomatoes, but are more of an elongated, oval shape

They are often referred to as plum tomatoes

Are grown primarily in California, Florida, and Mexico

Usually grow to be 2-3 inches long and weigh about 2-4 ounces

When ripe, Roma's turn a deep red to reddish-orange/reddish-pink color

Roma tomatoes are available year round

Are perfect for making sauces, pastes, and ketchup, as well as for canning, putting into salads, or on sandwiches or pizza.

Garden Peach tomato

Named after their resemblance to a peach

Are yellow-orange in color

They even have the shape and fuzzy skin like a peach!

The flavor of a Garden Peach tomato is simple and sweet

They generally grow to be about 2-3 ounces in size

Jubilee tomato

Are yellow to orange in color

Are known to have more Vitamin C than most other tomato varieties

Are also less acidic than other tomatoes

Usually grow to be 3-3 1/2 inches in diameter

Because they are less acidic, they make for a great juicing tomato

Champion tomato

Are solid, meaty tomatoes with a sweet flavor

Can grow to be 6-8 ounces in weight

Are very similar to Celebrity tomatoes

Thrive in hot, dry climates which makes them perfect for growing in the Southern and Southwestern U.S.

Excellent tomato for slicing onto sandwiches or putting into salads

Sun Gold tomato

Sun Gold tomatoes are a type of cherry tomato, or small round tomatoes

When ripe, Sun Gold's become a golden orange color

The flavor is characterized as being very sweet

The Sun Gold is unique in that it can grow and thrive in both warm and cold environments

Dona tomato

Originally bred by the French to be a very flavorful and high-quality tomato that would sell at market

Dona tomatoes are very good at resisting disease

They grow to be about 6 ounces in weight

They have a slightly flattened top and a nice, sweet/acid balance

Dona's are unique in that they contain almost no seeds

Beefmaster tomato

Beefmasters are large, smooth, and red

As the name implies, they can grow to be up to 1-2 pounds!

Despite being so large, they have a very good flavor

Originally introduced into European gardens in the early 16th century. However, they were not eaten, but were used as ornamental plants in the garden

Beefmasters are good to eat either cooked or raw

They tend to grow best in warm weather climates

Juliet tomato

Grown as clusters of red, elongated tomatoes, Juliet's are a type of cherry tomato

Grow to be only about 1-2 oz in size

Despite being so small, they have a rich texture and meaty flavor

Are a perfect addition to any salad

